WASHINGTON'S LEAGUE CLUB

SHORT HISTORY OF THE TWENTY-ONE MEN UNDER CONTRACT.

Who They Are and Where They Have Played-Interesting Base Ball Records-Men Who Have Traversed the Country-Batting and Fielding Aver-

If the clerk of the weather is in an amiatle mood, which has not been the case during the past few days, the base ball sea son will open with a big boom Thursday afternoon, and Washington's representative nine will go into active; preliminary practice. The introductory game on Thursday will be with the Amherst College club; Friday the Hamiltons, of Ontario, Canada, will be the Statesmen's opponents, and again on Saturday the Amherst College boys will cross bate with the Nationals. As the college boys have been actively engaged during the winter months in gymnasium exercise, they will no doubt give the local club a little of the healthful work they so much need.

The Nationals start out under very promiting the start out under very promit ising circumstances, as they have twenty-one players from which to select in the make up of the nine that will have to unmake up of the nine that will have to undergo the hard work of the coming League season. Great things cannot be looked for at the cutset, as the players will be rusty from want of practice, but before the end of April there should be good ball playing, and if there is not it will then be time enough to complain. In order that the readers of the REPUBLICAN may know scraething about the record of the players the club has secured, a short history of the twenty one under contract is appended: semething about the record of the players the club has secured, a short history of the twenty one under contract is appended:

Fred L. Shaw, otherwise known as "Wizard" Shaw, comes from Charlestown, Mess. He first played ball in Lynn, Mass., in 1832. In 1853 he was engaged on the Detroit League club, and by his deceptive pitching gained a satonal reputation. Shaw remained in Detroit unto the middle of 1894, but at that time had some clue culty with the management and joined forces with the Boston Unions, in which team he ended the season. In 1895 the "Wizard" pliched for the famous Providence club, but did not make as good a record as he did not the Detroits. The season of 1886 saw Shaw on the Nationals, and while at times his exhibition in the pitcher's box was the finest ever witnessed in this city, still his season's work as a whole was not satisfactory. This year Dupee promises to hold his end up with the best of them, and if the new rules do not hamper his delivery he certainly ought to prove as good a twirler as is in the League. Shaw is 5 feet 8 inches in height, weighs 165 pounds, and is 28 years old.

F. F. Gilmore commenced playing ball as a professional in Hartford in 1884, where he first earned his laurels on the diamond field. He continued with that club, doing good work, until last September, when he was engaged by the Nationals, and proved himself to be a very effective pitcher. His work in the box is earnest at all times, and if the new rules do not operate against his delivery he will puzzle the heaviest batters of the League. Gilmore is 23 years old; 5 feet 11 liches in height, and weighs 165 pounds.

H. M. O'Day is also a pitcher, and his

5 feet 11 inches in height, and weighs 160 pounds.

H. M. O'Day is also a pitcher, and his swift and speedy delivery is well known to the patrons of the national game. During the season of 1885 he did effective service for the Nationals when they won the championship of the Eastern League. O'Day started out professionally on the Council Bluff club in the fall of 1882. In 1883 and 1884 he did fine work for the Toledos, and in the first part of 1885 was with the Pittsburgs, and from that club came to the Nationals. During the early part of 1886 Hank pitched with telling effect for the Savannah Club. Then he went to Detroit, and from there-returned to this city, where Savannah Club. Then he went to Detroit, and from there returned to this city, where hc, finished the season. O'Day's forte in pitching is his speed, and as he has never made many preliminary movements before delivering the ball, it is thought that the new rules will suit him to perfection, and that the coming season will be the most successful one of his life. O'Day is 27 years old, weighs 185 pounds, and is 6 feet in height.

James E. Whitney first came into prominence ypon the Pacific coast as a pitcher in 1880, and the reputation he there made gained him an engagement upon the Boston gained him an engagement upon the Boston League Club in 1881, where he remained League Club in 1881, where he remained until last spring, when he joined the Kansas City team, and with them finished the season. At the late League meeting Whitney was given the National Club, and if "Grasshopper Jim" pitches with anything like the old time effectiveness, he will prove a valuable man, as he is familiar with all the League batsinen, las perfect command of the ball, and can use the bat effectively when needed. Whitney is about the only batting pitcher the Nationals have. His age is 28 years, height & feet 1 inch, and weight 15 pounds.

when needed. Whitney is about the only battling pitcher the Nationals have. His age is 28 years, height $\beta$ feet 1 inch, and weighs 175 pounds.

R. M. Keating is also a pitcher, but as yet has not made a record among professionals. He halfs from Massachusette, and first began playing ball in Springfield, in his native state. In preliminary practice during the past week Keating has shown up well, but whether he will continue his good work when compelled to face the heavy batters of the League remains to be seen. Keating is 21 years old, weighs 155 pounds, and 6 feet 1 inch in height.

G. W. Keefe is a Washington boy, who has played around the city with various amateur clubs. Last seeson he pitched several games for the Nationals, and in the exhibitions agatust the New York club last August did excellent work. Keefe is quite a youngster, being 20 years old; height, 5 yet 11 inches, and weighs 131 pounds.

Cornelius Mack commenced his professonal career as a ball player on the Meridans, of Connecticut, in 1884, as a catcher. From there he went to Hartford and played on the nine in that city during 1885 and part of 1886. From Hartford he came to Washington and his superb work behind the bat during the latter part of last season is too well known to local enthusiasts to need comment here. Mack is not only a first-class catcher, but is also an excellent batter. His ago is 24 years weighs 160 pounds, and is 6 feet 1 inch in height.

P. E. Dealy is also a catcher, He started out as a professional in 1883 at Moosak, Conn., from where he joined the Milwaukees in 1884, and played with them until they disbanded. Thence he went to St. Paul, and in 1885 and 1886 was a member of the Boston League Club. Dealy is a good batter and base runner, and if he has luck will prove an excellent back-stop for the Statesmen. He is 24 years old, 5 feet 81 inches in height, and weighs 150 pounds. Bernard Gilligan started ball playing in 1878 in and around Boston, but first attracted attention to his ability as a ball tosser on the Cleve rgton public, and needs no notice, "Gilly is 30 years of age, weighs 150 pounds, and is 5 feet 6 inches in height.

Phitip C. Baker is well and favorably known to all the base ball patrons of the national capital, and it would seem strange to miss Lucky Fhil's face from the local capital, and the patron of the local strange to miss Lucky Fhil's face from the local strange.

national capital, and it would seem strange to miss Lucky Fhil's face from the local nine. Paker first learned to play ball in his native city, Philadelphia, but made his mark as a professional on the Hornells in 1878. He joined forces with the Nationals in the latter part of that year, and has played in this city ever since, with the exception of part of the season of 1883, when he played in Baltimore. He is a fine batter, a good base runner, a fair catcher, superior felder, and as guardian of first base unexceled. Baker is 20 years old, weighs 150 pounds, and is 5 feet 7 inches tall.

W. F. Kreig started playing ball is 1878 on the college team of Notre Dame, Ladians, where he continued until 1881. In 1882 he caught for the Springfields, and in 1883 went to Peoria. When the Union Association started, in 1884, Kreig made his mark backing up one-armed Dally's erractic delivery on the Chicago Unions, and gained a front rank among the catchers of the country; 1885 saw Kreig in Brooklyn, but from that club he was released early in June of the same year. Then he went to Hartford and remained until last September, when he was released to the Nationals. Kreig is a fine batter, base runner, and fielder, and is a valuable man to have on a club. Since his coming to this city he has made many friends by his quiet and gentlemanly bearing. He is 28 years old, weighe 195 pounds, and is 5 feet 11 inches in height.

Williagn O'Brian is a first baseman, and is one of the recent acquisitions to the Statesmen's ranks. Billy, as he is familiarly called, started in playing ball in 1884 at St. Paul. During 1885 he was with the Kansas City, and on their disbandment went to Memphis, finishing the season in that city. Nashville engaged the big first baseman for the season of 1880, where he gave complete satisfaction. Last fall the St. Louis Marcons engaged O'Brian, and when that club sold its franchise to the Lesgue he was released to the Nationals. O'Brian is a sure and heavy batter, a fine fielder, and is likely to become exceedingly popular with local admirrer of the game. He is 25 years old, 5 feet 11½ inches in height, and weighs 195 pounds.

John Farrell, the Nationale' accord baseman, halls from Newark, N. J., where he first started in as a ball player in 1874; went to Elizabeth, N. J., in 1875, and covered second bag for the Resolutes of that city. In 1876 John was a member of the Syracuse Stars, and made a brilliant record on that team until their disbandment in July, 1879, when he joined the Providence club, and was classed, while in that famous organization, as one of the leading second basemen in the Leaque. When the Providence team sold their franchise to Soden, of Boston, in 1885, Farrell was engaged by the Philadelphias, but owing to ill-health he did not do good work, and was released to the Nationals about the middle of last season. John's work while on the Nationals was excellent, and, as he appears to be in person. John's work while on the Nationals was son. John's work while on the Nationals was excellent, and, as he appears to be in perfect physical condition at present, it is anticipated that he has regained his old form, and will be a model infield player, as in days gone by. Farrell is 28 years of age, weighs 180 pounds, and is five feet nine inches in height.

S. N. Crane is also a second baseman, and started as a professional in 1877 on the Lowell Club; then went to Springfield and played there during 1878 and 1879. In 1880 was manager of the Buffalos. During 1881 and 1882 he retired from the diamond field on account of a lame arm. The season of 1853 saw Sam on the "Mets," where he finished the year. The Cincinnati Unions secured Crane's services in 1884, and in 1885 and 1886 he played with the Indianapolls, Detrolt, and St. Louis Clubs. apolis, Detroit, and St. Louis Clubs. Crane is a first class fielder, either at short stop or second base; a fleet runner, but rather weak as a batsman. He is 25 years old, weighs 178 pounds, and is 6 feet in height.

Al. Myers is also a second baseman or short stop. He commenced his professional career in the northwest, but was of little prominence until the season of 1885, when he joined the Philadolphias. He went to Kaneas City in 1895, and by his good fielding and heavy batting earned a name for himself in base ball annals. Myers is 27 years old; 5 feet 7 inches in height, and weighs 175 pounds.

James Dounelly made a name for himself as a third baseman on the Indianapols Club in 1885, and when that team was sold to Detroit in the middle of that year Donnelly played third bag for the Wolverines. In 1886 he was released to Kansas City and for a time played an excellent game, but owing to repeated injuries during the latter part of the season he could not do himself, justice. Donnelly is a swift, accurate thrower and a quick handler of hot-hit liner. If misfortune does not again befall him this season it is more that probable that he will prove to be a model player. He is 22 years old, 5 feet 10 inches in height, and weighs 155 pounds.

J. T. McGlone guards third base. He begg his professional career in Pennsylvania in 1885. In 1886 he was a member of the Buffalo club, from which organization he was purchased by the Nationals last fall. He is a good fielder and runner, but only a fair batter. McGlone is 24 years old, weighs 170 pounds, and is 5 feet 91 inches in height.

Clifford S. Carroll started ball playing as weighs 100 pounds, and is 3 feet 92 inches in height.

Clifford S. Carroll started ball playing as a business in the far west, but first came into prominence as a member of the Providence club in 1883, where he played until last season, when he became a member of the National team. In his position at left field Carroll covers a remarkable amount of ground, is a swift and accurate thrower, but is by no means a sure catch on a fly ball. He is a first-class base runner, and a fair batter. Cliff is 5 feet 10 inches in height, weighs 175 pounds, and is 20 years regat, weight 1/3 pounds, and it 23 years old.

Paul Hines is a Washington boy, and is both well and favorably known to all our base ball people. He started out professionally with the old Nationals in 1873, went to Chicago in 1874, remained on that club for six years, and then joined the Providence nine, on which latter club he played until be was secured by the Nationals last season. Paul is a very versatile player, as in an emergency he can creditably fill all the infield positions outside of pitcher or catcher, and in the center field he is among the best in the business. Hines is beyond doubt one of the heaviest batters in the country, and wields the willow with telling

He is 24 years old, 5 feet 7 inches in height, and weighs 160 pounds.

A. M. Stuart is a graduate of Amherst College, and during his career as a college ball player was considered a terrific batter, as well as an excellent fielder. He is 23 years of age, 5 feet 9 inches in height, and weighs 150 pounds.

OPENED STRONG AND ACTIVE, Stock Prices Influenced by the Money Market.

NEW YORK, Mar. 29 .- For the first time n many weeks the money market became a factor in the course of prices, and, notwith-standing the fact that the entire street is standing the fact that the entire street is talking in favor of high figures, as long as money held up the stock market had a saying tendency. The rates for stocks were to-day in process of adjustment to those for money, and this was an inducement to many operators to take the profits shown in the operations of the past four days. It is also believed that the policy of the leaders is to prevent a material advance until after the April settlements. The market showed some degree of strength in the early dealings, and London was a liberal buyer at that time of day, but the steady pressure of stocks for sale steadily forced prices down until late in the day, when the easing of the rates for money somewhat encouraged buying, and a spurt in New England and the Wabashes gave more character to the dealings.

Wabshes gave more character to the dealings.

The opening was again active and strong, the advances over last evening's final quotations ranging from $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. Heaviness became more pronounced toward neon, although the losses were measured by fractions only. Later the market became decidedly dull and entirely devoid of features, but after 1 o'clock the movement in New England began, and the general market responded slowly. In the last hour there was considerably more business, and prices were brought up to the neighborhood of opening figures, the close being moderately active and firm to strong.

The Bartholdi Statue of Liberty The light house board has completed arrangements for increasing and improving the illumination of the Bartholdi Statue of Liberty on Bedlos's Island. A strong leus will be placed in the torch, five additional electric lights will be placed around the base, making thirteen of such lights in sil, and a number of incandescent lights will be placed in the interior of the status. The light to be placed in the torch will be one of the most powerful fixed lights in the world. It is intended more for the purpose of enhancing the grandest of the statue of enhancing the grandest of the statue than as an sid to navigation, as a light of much less power shan the one selected would answer exally well for the latter purpose. The proposed work will be done purpose. Instructions were issued yesterday to the Brooklyn navy yard noard for its guidance in determining upon the additional plant required for the construction of the 5,000 ton vessels.

ASPHALT PAVEMENTS.

How the Commissioners Propose to Bridge Their Troubles.

The Commissioners, in reply to Comp-troller Durham's letter asking the cost of laying asphalt, state that, in view of the act of Congress limiting the price of the service to $2 per square yard, they were compelled to do the best they could in their dilemma. They adopted the plan of the K-street improvement, and as it was impossible to lay a 6-inch base pavement for less than $2.25 per square yard, they, therefore, secured an equally as good pavement at $1.97 per square yard by requiring the admixture of Portland cement with National cement, and by this means produced a pavement of sufficient strength to admit of a reduction of depth of base. The asphalt laid has a base of four thebes, if this course had not been pursued no asphalt could have been lidid, and the entire business would have been thrown into the hands of one contractor. This places the base of the asphalt pavement on an equality with a seal trail and the parameters. service to $2 per square yard, they were contractor. This places the base of the asphalt pavement on an equality with a coal tar distillate pavement, and thereby conserves the interest of the public. The commissioners believe that the letter of inquiry addressed to them on Jan. 23 last was the officious work of a clerk, and not the inquiry of the comptroller.

WARMAN'S SCHOOL ROOM FRIEND: PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS ON READING, RECITING, AND IMPERSONATING, (Not treatise on elocution). By Prop. E. B. WARMAN, A. M., teacher of oratory and physica training, Presbyterian Theological Seminary, Chicago, Chicago, W. H. Harrison jr., 257 State street. Publisher. 75 cents.

Says the title page motto: "A book i aluable not for the thought it contains but for that which it suggests." This book is valuable for both these things. And i is also as much the friend of the publi speaker as of the teacher. We commend It speaker as of the teacher. We commend it warmly to each, after a thorough examination of its pages, satisfied that every student, of whatever class or age, will find pleasure and decided profit.

The author's lecture on "True and False Elocution," which concludes the volume, is proof of close observation and long experience. No wonder that it is praised by such competent judges as John B. Gough, J. T. Trowbridge, Hon. Geo. R. Wendling, and Wendell Phillips.

THE GRAPHIC, An Hinstrated Weekly Newspaper, March 12. London; 19) Strand. Sale Brentano Bros. Sixpence.

A large and grand publication, superb it ts numerous illustrations, and varied, in-teresting, valuable in its clear-printed text. A fine portrait of Madame Clara Schumann, widow of the famous musical composer, presents placid, thoughtful features, and proves how beautiful age can be when age has refinement and goodness. The lady, herself a wonderful pianist, was born at Leipsic, September 13, 1819, married in 1840, and is now teaching her divine art. Scenes in Egypt, India, Switzerland, Hong Kong, Naples, introducing human and animal figures, feasting, hunting, tobogganing, soldiering, sea life, and other phases, are powerfully portrayed and in character both curious and instructive.

THE TRUE SOURCE OF THE MISSISSIPPI By PEARCE GLES, Buffalo, N. Y. Pub

With a picture of the "Source of the Mississippi," and two maps, it is shown that the origin, the birthplace of the that the origin, the birthplace of the "Father of Waters" is not Lake Itasca, as generally received, but Lake Glazier, in its vicinity, which, ", a small stream, flows into Itasca. Lattic Glazier, so named from its discoverer, Cost. Willard Glazier, has three feeders, F. le, Excelsior, and Decreteks. This latest geographical claim is supported by ample testimony from highest and wide-spread authorities. The story of adventures during the exploration, which had so important a result, is an interesting romance of truth.

March 15. 5 cents; $1 s. year. New York:
William C. Conaut, 34 Bond street. Still, with great interest and ability, the Era discusses all sanitary subjects, not alone about home, but everywhere. The discovery of wrong things, threatening health and life, is appailing. And the world is so unwilling to right them, and so slow if it attempts! And the world was never so wise as it is now!

THE FEACEMAKER. March. 10 cents; $1 a year. Philadelphia: Universal Peace Union, 402-4-6 Race street. Publishers. To remove the causes and abolish the customs of war this little giant monthly has labored nineteen years. Truth is of slow growth, but will blossom and bear fruit some day. God speed that time.

Not only against war the Peacemaker srgues and pleads, but opposing that other barbarity of the age, that "damned spot" on civilization, capital punishment. It quotes, and we cannot refrain the quotation, from the Ecening Telegram, of New York, the following paragraph in relation to the late judicial murder of Mrs. Druse:

"Up in Herkimer county yesterday half a dozen able-bodied men, ministers of the law, seized a hysterical, helpless woman, tied her hands and feet so that she could not writhe, and then choked her to death with a rope, in a jail yard. It took fifteen minutes to finish the choking, and two surgeons felt her pulse every half minute after the rope was tightened on her neck and reported the number of its beats to the spectators until it ceased. It was a ghastly spectacle. Had it been done without the authority of the law it would have been as cowardly as it was ghastly." labored nineteen years. Truth is of slow 5TA cowardly as it was ghastly."

Alleged Gambling House Raided. The police of the fifth precinct, under Licut. Boteler, raided an alleged gambling house, kept by John Porter, near the Navy Yard bridge, yesterday afternoon, about 4 o'clock. The officers succeeded in capturing the proprietors and fourteen men, who were all marched to the station house.

Gentlemen, I am fully convinced that the nejority of diseases which afflict humanity are hereditary. The "parents have eaten sour grapes and put the children's teeth on edge. This was my inheritance: a scrofulous condi-tion of the whole body, resulting in a catarrhal affection in my head and all the membraneous parts of my body. I became nearly deaf and blind; the chords of my neck became con-tracted so that I could not move my neck without pain. Dyspepsia followed, so that the least and lightest food gave me great trouble. I became weak and emaciated, but had no organic disease. I tried everything that medical skill could suggest, but without avail. Three years ago I went to the gulf coast with the terrible cruption broken out on my face and body. When warm weather came I had the most ter-rible irritation of the skin. In the midst of my aufferings Swift's Specific was suggested. With grave doubts, and almost without hope, I yielded to the demand of my friends.

I began by taking the largest prescribed dose. This brought the poison rapidly to the surface on my entire body. My legs swelled so that I could not stand on them, and I lay in bed about three months. I was one sheet of mat-tering sores. I suffered terribly from the itch-ing produced by the medicine. I stood it as jeng as I could, and would stop for a few days and then commence again. Finally the sores dried up and I was out again. A year ago the eruption appeared on my head, completely covering it, and was very painful. I went back to my former deliverer, S. S. S. Now I have but two small sores on my head, but give me no pain. My general health has constantly improved, and I can est almost any kind of food, and can sleep well at night. I am an account-ant, and am sble to perform a large amount of work daily in the office. I weigh new 166 pounds, and my face is free from eruption and
